The Teacher as Moral Practitioner

Character
The act of teaching is a moral activity. The profession is characterized by almost daily actions of deliberation (justice) and choice (judgement). The nature of the work is such that one person engages in some behavior in relationship to some other person. Moral considerations are inherent in the myriad transactions throughout the school day. The very nature of the career is one in which those with whom the teacher interacts are profoundly affected by the actions. “Teaching must be characterized as a career deeply influenced by moral practice” (Protestant ethic, in Goodlad, p.14).

Competence
Competence denotes a way of thinking and acting in accordance with the ways of one who is wise and knowledgeable.

Service
Service denotes the spirit of community and disposition to aid those who are unable to help themselves – giving up something of value to assist someone else. Grace College graduates offer service to others in a spirit of mercy and kindness.

Matthew 6:8
“He has told you, O man, what is good and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?”

Grace College Mission
Grace College is an evangelical Christian community of higher education which applies biblical values in strengthening character, sharpening competence, and preparing for service.
