Position	Department
Assistant/Associate Professor of Psychology/Behavioral Science	School of Behavioral Sciences

Grace College and Seminary welcomes diversity, and makes employment opportunities available to all applicants and employees without regard to gender, race, color, pregnancy, age, ancestry, national origin, disability, citizenship status, military status, genetic information, or any other legally protected category.

Grace College invites applications and nominations for the full-time position of Assistant/Associate Professor of Psychology/Behavioral Science. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate psychology courses, including both residential and online courses; advising; professional development; scholarly activity; and both college and community service.

The Behavioral Science Department is housed within the School of Behavioral Sciences in the college, which includes both undergraduate and graduate programs. The department seeks a faculty member who holds views comparable to those of the institution, which include the institution's doctrinal commitments, called the Covenant of Faith. It also seeks a faculty member whose experience and scholarship will complement the contributions of the department's existing faculty.

Grace College is a Christ-centered Liberal Arts College informed by pietist and evangelical traditions.
